Called For Wednesday

The student viewpoint will be represented by Ben Ragland, senior in the college of Engineering, winner of the recent ODK Oratorical contest and the university's representative in the state oratorical contest for 1936.

April 22 has been chosen by colleges and universities throughout the nation for a "strike" against war intended to furnish a material proof of the wide spread opposition to war and the agencies which further it that exists on the American campus today.

The reasons behind the last great war, the probabilities of having another, and the part the campus population of American play in eradicating war will form the groundwork for the three speeches.

The demonstration will be the first of its kind on the University campus. The first student protest against war was organized in the spring of 1934. Approximately 25,000 students participated, most of them from the larger Eastern colleges and universities. The number was increased to 185,000 in February of 1935 when the second student strike brought a nation-wide response. From reports received to date it is conservatively estimated that 500,000 students will answer the call Wednesday.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the demonstration includes: Tom Spragens, chairman, Daisy Cain, Martha Christian, Augusta Roberts, Joe Freeland, William Leet, Sam Milner, Don Riestler, Bart Peak, and Frank Burger.

HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

A PROGRESSIVE LIBRARY

In line with the recent suggestion of The Kernel and with the idea of more efficiently serving the student body our library has extended its closing hour to ten o'clock. The need and reasons for such procedure are well understood by all and were advanced at some length in this column.

It is our purpose, therefore, to compliment the library administration upon this effort to aid the student body in making better use of its facilities. It is an exhibition of a progressive spirit and is decidedly deserving of commendation. At the same time The Kernel hopes that this will be merely the initial step in improving the bibliothecal accommodations of the University. The library has enjoyed a constant growth but likewise has the student body. In certain respects the library's facilities have failed to keep pace with this growth of the student body, and a remedy of this condition is desirable.

HONORARIES

At this season of the year The Kernel is filled with announcements of pledgings to I Felts Thi, Sis Boom Bah, Spears, Lantern and Symbol, Locks, etc. The candidate wears a dainty piece of ribbon for a short period, pays out his hard cash and is then duly entitled to dangle from his watch chain the emblem of the organization. Two weeks after initiation the purpose of the organization, if it has any, is utterly forgotten by the initiate.

The foregoing description is typical of the situations which are daily developing around us. Everyone is making a mad effort at a front which will gain him recognition and subsequent pledging by some organization while at the same time the various societies are casting wildly about for enough "suckers" with the cash which is customarily required for entrance into such an organization.

There are about fifty organizations on our campus which exist under the title of honorary of one sort or other and out of this fifty, three-fourths are hard put to justify their existence. A large number of them exist purely as representatives of gigantic national rackets; most of the money which is paid in as initiation fees is sent to the "national headquarters" which in turn sends back a small sheet of paper which says "This is to certify that Blank Blank is a member of Blank Blank."

The fact that such a situation exists is undeniable. One can even make the assertion that anyone having the money necessary and the desire to get into some honorary in order that he may have the privilege of wearing a key and the pleasure of writing home to the folks that he has "made" such and such an organization can easily find one which will be willing to welcome him as a brother.

Moreover such organizations are a definite hindrance to the efforts of really worthwhile organizations which attempt to bestow honor where honor is due and which contribute something tangible to campus life in the form of ideals and standards which are worth striving after.

That such a condition should exist on the campus of the University of Kentucky is indeed deplorable and little short of amusing. The student body should awake and rebel against the existence of societies which have no merit.

The "honorary" not only tend to overshadow the purposes and ideals of more worthwhile organization, but they seriously impede them in the selection of candidates which really possess merit, because of the difficulty of sizing up the worth of the organizations and honors which they have received.

WHY STUDY?

There is a song that goes something like this: "The more you study, the more you know; the more you know, the more you forget; the more you forget, the less you know; the less you know, the less you forget; the less you forget, the more you know; so why study?"

Here are some figures which, from a financial standpoint, show the value of studying. A statistical survey made recently by the Massachusetts Department of Labor and the College of Business Administration at Boston University shows that the average college graduate earns, during his life, $150,000 as against the life earnings of $45,000 for the untrained man and $78,000 for the high school graduate.

The untrained man receives his maximum salary which averages about $1,200 a year, at the age of thirty. The high school graduate receives his average maximum salary of $2,200 at the age of 40, while the college graduate attains the maximum salary of the high school graduate within six years and is often earning as much as $6,000 at 60, when the untrained man, whose salary depends on his physical ability, has passed his usefulness.

Over and above these financial advantages of a college education, there are innumerable cultural and recreational advantages. People learn to appreciate literature and art. They acquire hobbies which enable them to wisely spend their leisure time. They gain poise and tact in their dealings with other people. In short, they become educated.—Hills News, St. Lawrence University.

"SLOPPY" EDUCATION

Higher education in the United States from 1920 to 1930 was recently characterized by Dr. Stephen Duggan, director of the Institute of International Education, as a "pretty sloppy kind of affair." In denouncing past practices, Dr. Duggan said:

"During the decade from 1920 to 1930, some of the greatest new industries came upon the scene—the cinema, radio, airplane and the new kinds of automobiles. The result was that any college graduate, until 1930, who was unable to get a job within six months after he left college, was a pretty poor college graduate. In the past ten or fifteen years, we in higher education have been stimulated by expansionism. We have not studied society outside the walls of the college to analyze the new industries, enterprises or movements."

Since the time referred to by Dr. Duggan, advances have been made to remedy this situation. The time is past when all that college students wanted from their alma mater was instruction in the finer arts of life and good football games.

Students today have their choice of industrial training or liberal arts courses. Divisions are so numerous that almost any type of education can be realized through wise choice of subjects. Each course graduates many students each year, trained in the field they have chosen, whether it is science, business, engineering, art, forestry, home economics, music, or varied courses which teach the finer arts of life.

Discussion has been long and heated on the values of specialized versus general training and which should be emphasized in colleges. The battle still rages. Opportunities for both "sloppy" education, as Dr. Duggan calls it, and practical training are offered in most colleges. Students must decide the problem themselves.—The Daily Orange, Syracuse University.

POLITICS BLAMED FOR CRIME WAVE

In a recent address before a New York audience, J. Edgar Hoover, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, speaking of the unprecedented spread of crime throughout the entire country during the past few years said, "When a man commits a crime and starts upon his escape, the easiest avenue toward freedom is after he has been apprehended by a law enforcement agency." And further, "The American should make it his business to combat crime and all of the filthy and stultifying influences which foster crime." In other words, the citizen's obligations to the country is not satisfied by the establishment of a police system—but his interest, in what is ultimately his own well-being, must extend into the courts to the final conviction and incarceration of the law breaker.

These charges are by no means new. The connection between rotten politics and crime is too tacitly understood by the majority of people for it to come as a surprise. But, when the pronouncements of a man whose position and experience lend credulity to his words, are speeches of those stultifying influences of which, "the most important of all is rotten politics," it is time that the ordinary citizen take interest.

It is a well known fact that many criminals have enjoyed a long life of crime before they are brought to the higher courts, and this in many cases is not due to the lack of vigilance on the part of the police. The fault lies in the lower courts, where a little bit of "pull" judiciously exercised can bring about a man's release for offenses that merit jail terms.

The public is failing to interest itself in this matter of "cleaning" the lower courts, is forced not only to bear the onus of the situation, and its unnecessary expense, but is also increasing the likelihood that he, himself, will be the next victim of the purse slim footpad.—Villanova, Villanova College.

All good things must come to an end—if being editor of a college paper can be called "good"—and so with today's issue of the Kernel, the present staff will ring down the curtain on its 1935-36 journalistic activities—in the college world. It was just a year ago this time that ye old editor took command of the good ship KERNEL, but at that time he did not know what he was getting into. They say there is supposed to be a lot of honor attached to the editorship, but if such is the case, it is totally put in the background by the grief that is suffered from all sides. Most of the persons who know nothing about the internal workings of a newspaper think that the editor's job is one with an easy chair attached to it. This may be true to a certain extent, but on the other hand, there is much he has to account for that never comes to light, especially what the people "think" he ought to account for. It is a position that creates more enemies than any other one activity on the campus. He is the "fall guy" for everything that appears in the paper and for a lot of things that don't appear. As to the experience, both practical and theoretical, acquired in being editor, well, that's a matter of personal opinion. However, one thing is certain, when a person is editor he loses all the knack of writing any kind of story that is worth reading. Once in a great while he may sit down and write an editorial, but even that is on his own initiative. Friday's Kernel will be put out by an entirely new staff, and those of the passing regime wish them all the luck in the world in their new endeavor. It's a tough racket!

Another "gloomy" Sunday has passed into the great beyond. Sundays are the longest days of the week, no matter how one looks at them. Even with Spring in the air and all the fitting epithets that go with it, the "blues" still prevail on the seventh day of the week. That poor Hungarian who wrote the words and music for "Gloomy Sunday" is having a tough time of it. It is claimed that many persons have committed suicide because of that song, and because of this he says he is sorry that he wrote it. Nevertheless, he received some good publicity out of his venture, but time marches on!

Would have liked to be in Washington last Saturday night to attend the annual "Gridiron" banquet given by the newspaper correspondents at the capital. Each year this group of men get together and give the nation's dignitaries a burlesque version of national events as seen by newspapermen. President Roosevelt made a speech, but it was one time when it did not crash the front pages of the fourth estate; it was "off the record." Everybody from William Randolph Hearst to James A. Farley were raked over the coals. One of the cleverest things was the parable to the recent song hit "We Saw the Sea." Here it is:

"We joined the New Deal to see the world.
And what did we see? The C. C. C.
Right from the Pacific to the Atlantic,
C's are gigantic, C's make us franchise.
We think the New Deal isn't what it's cracked up to be."

Edwin W. Gableman, Washington correspondent for the Cincinnati Enquirer, was elevated to the post of president of the organization for 1936, and six new members were initiated.

The floor show at Dean Jones' "night club" last Friday night seemed to be a success. As a mascot without an equal; Kelly the Kop, who knows more gossip on the than do the scandalists; Philau Andy Anderson, but he speaks for himself.

Added after thoughts: After the exhibition parade of the First Battalion Monday morning it was suggested that it be renamed the Rainbow Division on account of the line while passing the reviewing stand.

Questionable
Could there be anything in the "seen together much" Virginia Batten and Jess Wilmott case. She says, "Well, maybe."

What Glad-eyes and I would like to know is, the names of the couple who were imitating Romeo and Juliet down in the rock garden during convocation Friday morning. They didn't seem in the least embarrassed over our watching them.

Amusing incident—Listening to Bob Forsythe ride Frank Caywood about his being company sergeant and getting some more stripes on his blouse while Caywood is a guide and as Forsythe says, "a d—m poor one at that."

And there is the girl who rooms in the rear of the Pat Hall annex, second floor, who nearly broke up the diamond ball game Friday afternoon between the Phils and Independents by sitting in her window, drapess, and plucked on her eyebrows. The fielders never caught a fly ball all afternoon.

The best of all the week is located in the speech made by the president of the Better Speech society over the radio Sunday afternoon. It began "The infinite, far reaching powers of correct speech, etc." But even the best of us makes mistakes now and then.

When Walter Hillenmyer went down to Ashland he took Frances Woods' mother three rose bushes. His little brother was heard to remark, "Yeah, and I bet he had to plant them for her."

Personalities on the campus: Delt John Calvin Cramer, noted for his glib abilities as evidenced by winning the E. B. Ellis $100 award this semester; Pipak Basil Baker, a mean journalist and can be chisel; Prof. Jennings, whose "oh, ah—er" ter of ceremonies, Sam Potter is all that is needed and he should be able to get a job with that line of patter. It was too bad that Ticky Scholtz got the gong, but someone had to be the goat. There is going to be another one of those All-Campus dances Friday night, April 24, and so don't forget to be there. It is rumored that some of the campus gals are going to put on the floor show this time. That should be good. The season for the campus hops is just about drawing to a close. The last one will get under way on Saturday night, May 16, but the dancing time will be changed from 8:00-10:30 to 9:00-12:00 that night. It promises to be a gala affair.

It is said that there will be a "war strike" on the campus Wednesday from 11 to 12 o'clock in Memorial Hall. It will not merely be a local strike, but a national one, and students in schools all over the country will be striking. Just what good it does nobody knows, but the same thing took place last year on the same date, April 22. Watch for someone to get up and holler "Communists!"

The second edition of the "Sour Mash" goes to press in a few days, and from all indications it will be better than the last one, although the last issue was perfect in comparison with some of the humor magazines received in exchange. The best one seen was the Western Reserve Redcat. It was done on the style of Esquire, and some of the "kuts" were something to write home about. The editor could become a millionaire on that magazine. "Sour Mash" will go on sale on May Day, and don't miss it!

Two other campus publications have come off the press within the last few weeks. One by the Commerce College, "Bargains in Brains," and one by the College of Education, "Who's Who in Education." The commerce students use a subtle title for their publication, but then—, Nevertheless, their idea is very clever, and at least the students in those two colleges have a "string" on a job before they get out of school, but the rest of us poor devils have to tramp the streets looking for one. It would be a good idea for the Journalism department to publish a magazine of the kind, and then maybe some of the persons who slave in the basement of McVey Hall for four years would be able to get a job on a paper that is something more than a country gossip sheet. The one group of students who don't have to worry after they get their A. B.s are the pre-medics, because they know that they have many more years of school ahead of them. That must be a nice feeling.

Evidently somebody put some money in Maury Crutcher's building coffers, because the campus is being dressed up with some new sidewalks—something that has been needed for a long time. Someday—maybe—if the present pace is kept up, students may be able to drive through the campus.

Another election is soon due. This time it will be for the proverbial "May Queen." Wonder which sorority will gain that distinction this year—if it can be called that. It used to be given in turns, but present day cut-throat politics have somewhat changed that aspect. From all indications the sororities seem to be at each other's necks for the "Queen" honors on the campus, but then they have to have something to fight about.

Dr. Thomas Farran Jr., surgeon general of the United States public health service, will deliver the commencement address to the graduating class on June 5. Two Wildcat athletic teams came through with victories over the week-end, the track team defeating Vanderbilt and the tennis squad winning the Wayne University netters. There must be something wrong in the present National League set-up because the Cincinnati Reds are in the first division; they'll probably stay there about another week—maybe. Alvan T. Karpis, public enemy no. 1, is brought before the public's eye again because of the supposed solution of the William A. Hamm kidnapping case. Reports have it that Great Britain and France have at last come to an agreement as to the Italian-Ethiopian controversy. Mining and Metallurgical engineering students will take a trip to Eastern Kentucky to inspect mines in that area. William N. McNair, mayor of Pittsburgh, gained more free publicity last week when he was placed in jail on an embezzlement charge. Evidently he likes to see his name in the headlines. And with this, time—marches on!

Shop Sights

Now that the Easter parade is over, we'll have time to think about summer; that is, if the famed Kentucky weather ever makes up its mind! However, right now we're looking for something to wear to the Derby. Of course, we can't decide till the day before, because if we planned for a white costume, it would surely snow—just to complete the color scheme, you know.

The SPORTS GUILD has some linen suits with an entirely new kind of back. It looks like a belted type with a pleat stitched on top—that's not very definite, so maybe you'd better trot down yourself and see it. Choose your own color—white, aqua blue, dark blue, brown, pink, or yellow. If you're feeling the yen to get ready for a summer of golf or tennis or just plain comfort, try a Culotte. They're sort of elongated shorts with lots of material so you fool people into thinking you have on a regular dress, ... most convenient for the top of that windy hill on the links or when you take a spill on the tennis court.

KAUFMAN'S appear to think that you'll win your Derby bets with a Ambassador tie, Kentucky Derby special. Buy one, pick the winner, and return for an extra tie. In suits, there's the Gulfweight, a Hart Shaffner, and Marx style, made of woollens heavy enough to lake fine tailoring, yet light enough to keep you comfortably cool throughout the summer—and all-year round model.

Pretty Soon They'll Think
That We Don't Study Here

By WILLIAM B. ARTHUR

A Kernel feature writer recently presented the fine art of acquiring the tardiness habit. To those students who have already developed that art and seemingly have nothing else to strive for, remember that there is one other art, and this, the finest of all, is that of cutting classes.

Looking at the problem scientifically, it is to be noted that cutting classes falls into three distinct groups, each of which has its distinct qualities.

The first division of class cutting, which we shall call group one, involves the cutting of first hour classes. This type is generally psychological and brings on a great deal of self-argument with the verdict usually in your favor. When You'll need shoes for the Derby—a smart "Traveler" from COLLIS. If you like a rough buckskin, try the pump or one-strap model in brown and white. The latter is especially popular. For a sportier shoe, select the smooth buckskin oxford, perforated, single strap, inch and a half heel, and kiltie tongue. The best part is that you may have one pair of shoes to match all your dresses by simply buying various colored kilties and slipping them on. They are in red, green, canary, white, and brown.

For a hat, visit MITCHELL, BAKER, and SMITH's and see their sailors in felts, linens, and taffetas and all colors, including brown, white, and the new May wine. Perhaps you're going to a very swanky dinner party after the Derby and will need one of the huge leghorns with a mushroom brim to complete the picture, especially if you're a tall girl. Little ones would be swallowed up completely.

FUNKHOUSER TO SPEAK

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the Graduate school of the University, is scheduled to make three addresses in Paducah today. In the morning he will speak at a meeting of the students of Augusta Tilghman High school; at noon to the University of Kentucky Alumni club, and at night to the Delphic club, when he will talk on the subject "Why Nations Quarrel."

UK STUDENT GETS POST

John W. Brueck, University of Kentucky senior, was appointed as junior technician at the Good Samaritan hospital, Wednesday. He is majoring in bacteriology at the University and was serving as technician in the bacteriology laboratory until his appointment.

the alarm, whether human or otherwise, awakens you in the morning you rise up, glance out of the window and start thinking of reasons why you shouldn't go to class. Approaching the subject negatively weakens the positive angle and before long you are again sound asleep. Sometimes an argument is never necessary. You know the night before that you are going to sleep through that first hour class. Many pleasant holidays can be enjoyed through just such trifles because sleeping through one hour of school never seems to quite satisfy Morpheus. Attending dances, playing bridge, or other outside activities, including if you please, studying, are conducive to a peculiar inability to hear the alarm when the time arrives. In the event that you do hear it though, fall to wind or set it the night before. The results are startling.

Group two involves cutting classes miscellaneous; that is, not attending for no good reason. If the sun is shining brightly and spring seems to have driven winter into oblivion, you may like to stroll about the campus with that sweet young thing. By all means don't let classes interfere with your more romantic moods. A good Buck Jones western on an educational outlet seldom realized and should not be passed up even if at the expense of attendance at class.

Group three is the most precarious type of cutting. Excuses of the first order are necessary. Suppose you had a difficult assignment in a subject and failed to get it, or a quiz that you failed to prepare for. Make the class but by all means present a reason. The reason means nothing but provides you with a feeling of self-satisfaction, as if you put something over.

In all cutting, bear in mind that you are dealing with instructors who have gone through classes themselves and perhaps have employed the same irregular habits. There is a limit to cutting beyond which failure is certain. Keep the limit in mind and space your cuts accordingly. Nothing is so bad as the student who has reached his limit before the advent of spring and must of necessity attend all classes while the birds sing derisively outside.

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JOE QUINN
Kernel Sports Editor

Kentucky's intercollegiate sports activities have picked up momentum once again with the tennis and track squads both inaugurating their seasons last Saturday and the golf team already winner of two matches. And this spring each of the above teams promises to be one of the best in the University's history. Coach Bernie Shively's trackless track team took Vanderbilt's Commodores over the jump, winning nine first places to cop the meet by a comfortable margin. Ben Willis, the Cincinnati junior, once again opened his drive toward Southeastern conference honors by taking four firsts in his favorite events, the hundred and two-hundred yard dashes and the high and low hurdles. Willis' time of 9.9 in the century event was an indication of what he may be expected to do in future meets if conditions are favorable.

Dave Rogan, sensational sophomore from Middlesboro, celebrated his entrance into varsity competition by clipping two seconds off the track record for the mile run, negotiating the distance in 4:27.2. Rogan also captured the two-mile event for a perfect batting average for the afternoon.

Coach Shively has a well-balanced team and is certain to capture points in most events. With Willis and Rogan as a nucleus and such performers as Miller, Gates, Simpson, Nevers, Moore, Crain, Combs and Hay turning in consistent points, Shively stands a good chance of seeing his team go thru the season unbeaten.

The main weaknesses in the team are to be found in the jumpers. Neither the high nor the broad leapers have been able to reach a mark necessary to score in intercollegiate competition. In all other events with the exception of the discus and shot put, in which Stan Nevers is the only competitor, Kentucky has a fine chance to score first place points.

With all this talent for the first time in several years, Coach Shively is in the ironical situation of being without a track on which to show off his material. All Kentucky's meets will be held away from home and all the local customers will know is what they read in the papers.

Monday's sport wash... Just before the tennis team went forth to oppose Wayne in the season's opener... Serdus Leach, slated to bat in the number one spot, was declared ineligible... not because he was a graduate student as some supposed... but because of a couple of D's which the net star had incurred... Marion Clugish, the elongated center of Corbin's state champions, is almost certain to be wearing a Kentucky freshman uniform next season... Coach Rupp thinks he can make a great player of the Corbin giant... the same fellow who gave up Omaha last year tells us to get up our roubles on Boston Pal this time... and another Louisville observer is certain that Grand Slam is a cinch to gallop home first in the mud... Tommy Coleman has been turning on in spring drills... juggling the ball with the greatest of ease thru opposing forwards... he has been giving the best performance of any of the backs on the field.

VANDY LOSES TO 'CAT TRACKMEN

Ben Willis Leads UK Squad with 20 Points; Rogan Sets Mile Track Record at Vandy Field

Led by Ben Willis, speedy little junior, the University of Kentucky Wildcat track squad scored first in nine out of fifteen events to register a 61½ to 56½ victory over the Vanderbilt University Commodores at Nashville, Saturday.

Willis led his opponents to the tape in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and in the high and low hurdles, to score a total of 20 points.

Dave Rogan, Wildcat sophomore, also turned in two smooth firsts, outrunning the group in the mile and the two mile runs. His 4:27.2 mile clipped more than two seconds off the record for the event at the Vanderbilt track.

Kentucky won every track event except the relay to pile up an early lead over the Commodores. The Wildcats did not fare so well in the field events, winning only the javelin throw.

The next scheduled meet for the Kentucky tracksters is May 2 when the varsity and the freshmen thin-lies will journey to Knoxville for a dual meet with the Tennessee varsity and frosh.

W.A.A. News

Lights out! At eight o'clock next Thursday night, the white-sheeted King of Archery and the Queen of Tennis will direct the annual W. A. A. initiation at the Women's gym. In a death-like silence, members of the organization will undergo the frightening punishments assigned to them by the King and Queen. If these members value their lives they must maintain their composure and courage while the dreadful ordeal proceeds. But if they survive the ceremony, a treat is in store for them. They will be entertained by tap dancers, tumblers, and club swingers. Refreshments will then be served while popular music is played for those who wish to dance. All girls who have joined the W. A. A. by paying the dues of one dollar by Thursday noon are invited to attend.

Dance club members met yesterday afternoon to decide on the day for their class. This club is still open to any University girl who is interested in dancing. Clara Hughes or Miss Averill will be glad to give you information.

These warm spring days are perfect for riding. If you haven't already joined the horseback riding classes sponsored by W. A. A. at the Cavalry Club, why don't you sign up now at the gymnasium? You can find out about the hours and the instruction from Jane Welch, the manager.

Don't forget the party next Thursday at the gym, at eight o'clock. That's all, folks!

U. K. VICTOR IN TENNIS OPENER

'Cat Racquetters Win Five of Seven Matches to Defeat Wayne College of Detroit

By BILLY EVANS

In weather more suited for football or ice-hockey, the University of Kentucky varsity tennis team opened its season with an impressive victory over the Wayne College team of Detroit. The Wildcat racquetters won five of the seven matches.

At the outset, the local team was handicapped by the last-minute ineligibility of Leach, number one player. This necessitated the playing of co-captain Jimmy Moore in the top-ranking position. He performed exceptionally well, defeating his opponent, T. Winton, in three sets, 6-3, 6-6, 6-2. During this match Moore demonstrated the greater ability to put the ball away and was more consistent than his Wayne rival.

George Tulloch lost to Captain Chomicki in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5, in one of the two defeats sustained by the Kentucky team. Tulloch was not up to his usual standard, stroking inconsistently and missing numerous shots at the net. Bobby Evans, in his first collegiate match, completely outclassed Balow and walked away with the match in easy fashion, 6-4, 6-2. Evans gave evidences of developing into one of the top-ranking players on the University team in this match.

Displaying a great volleying attack and an ability to smash for crucial points, Elvis Stahr defeated Meyer in straight sets, 6-1, 7-5.

The second Kentucky loss was suffered when Dave Randall was defeated by Schiller in a long three-set match 9-7, 4-6, 6-2. The wind at the time played havoc with the deep, consistent game of Randall.

The Wildcats were triumphant in both doubles matches. Co-captains Moore and Stahr, playing number one, defeated Winton and Schiller 6-1, 6-4. Tulloch and Evans, playing together for the first time, won over Balow and Meyer by 6-2, 6-3.

In the first of these two matches the work of Stahr and Moore at the net was especially fine. In the other match Bobby Evans showed a great ability to make remarkable "gets", and Tulloch returned to form, making many brilliant shots to his opponents' baseline for points.

Earlier in the week Wayne College had defeated Union College and Centre, both of Kentucky. They had been on an extended tour of the South where they also encountered Johnson City College, Emory College, Alabama, and Georgia. The University will play a return match with Wayne at Detroit later in the season.

Sport Sketches

Warfield "War" Donohue, star guard and newly elected captain of the Wildcats basketball team, is a product of St. Xavier high school of Louisville. He is 20 years old, 6 feet and 2 inches tall, and weighs 167 pounds. ... a junior in the Arts and Sciences college, and is president of the Kappa Alpha social fraternity.

War is making a name for himself as a member of the Blue and White basketball team. Since beginning his varsity career, the star guard has been in the starting lineup every game that the Wildcats have played during the past two years. Should he start every game next season, he will set a record unheard of heretofore. Donohue was considered just a mediocre basketball player until his sophomore year, he held Engelbrecht, Creighton star forward, scoreless. In addition to being a star basketball player, the Falls City lad is equally outstanding as a tennis player. He is probably the most seasoned collegiate player in the state.

War eats Post Toasties for his breakfast cereal... reads Muggs McGinrush in the comics... his favorite fruit is the orange (Sunkist or Naval)... uses Dr. West tooth paste... had scarlet fever when a kid (what is this sketch coming to?)... listens to Jack Benny, Jello "funny man" every Sunday night... also tunes in on Guy Lombardo or Jan Garber at every opportunity... wears Arriw shirts... his favorite magazine is the Esquire... enjoyed "We're Not Dressing" more than any talkie he has seen... his choice song is "Sophisticated Lady"... likes the Pabst Blue beverage... his favorite actress is Myrna Loy (say, what is the power this woman has over our Wildcats?) however he admits that Ginger Rogers is not half-bad... thinks Buster Borries the best basketball player he has played against... he chose a Ford to the other two; a Kappa to all the others, but up to the present time, has secured only the car... wonder who is holding out... whether Edith, instead of accepting his fraternity pin, sup-official as they seem, is patiently waiting for the betrothal insignia, or whether War hates to depart with his seventy-five dollar investment.
